Hello Cheryl,

I can't think of any other cybercrime experts who are currently looking for an online teaching job. Sorry.

I would have preferred teaching in the UW-Platteville online grad program even though Milwaukee pays quite a bit more. I care about our students and would like to contribute to the success of our grad program. Unfortunately Dalecki is not willing to honor my contract of teaching .25 in the online grad program. You were right when you warned me about him, when he applied for the position in CJ in 2010 and 2011. I wanted to give him a fair chance but you were correct when you told me he is sexist, just like Caywood. Solar got to teach online as part of load but Dalecki tells me he needs me to teach face-to-face even though online grad teaching is part of my contract as discussed during my on-campus interview in 2009. Roberts and Lomax remember this fact as well.

It is a shame that our students are taught by an adjunct with just a Master's degree when they could have had me to teach them if Dr. Dalecki were only fair.

I think it was interesting that, at the last department meeting, Dalecki praised his old friend Caywood as "taking one for the team" because he studied FI last summer. I could have taught in the FI program without having to study last summer. I have both, work and teaching background in FI & chemistry but it seems I am too much of a threat to Dalecki & co. Unfortunate, as I think I could have served our FI students well.

Great to hear that Tina Freiburger was a student at UW-Platteville. She is very nice and great to work with. For now I am just happy I can teach in my expertise and am looking forward to the spring class.

Thanks for the update, Sabina. I think I can find another instructor to teach the Cyber Crime for us. If you know of another expert in the field who would be excited to teach the course for us, please let me know.

I will, however, miss having you in our course.

Dr. Freiburger was an excellent student of ours at UW-Platteville not so long ago - so happy to hear she achieved the Chair position at UW-Milwaukee.

Once again thanks for the update.

Cheryl,

UW-Milwaukee's Dean Stojkovic and CJ Chair Freiburger asked me to teach Cybercrime to their grad students starting this spring. They were impressed by my credentials and work experience in this field. I am looking forward teaching for them.

Thanks but no thanks,

Sabina

Hi Sabina, happy new year to you and your family!

I am starting to send out Summer 2015 instructional contracts to faculty for Summer 2015 teaching assignments.

Would you like to teach CRIMLJUS 7430 Cyber Crime for Summer 2015?

If you could let me know by Wednesday, January 7, 2015, by noon that would be great. I will begin to write contracts then.

Thanks,
Cheryl
