Sabina, that was for the faculty presentations. We don't do those. We never have. Our students/faculty present at the Young Forensic Scientists Forum, which is a breakout session. The deadline for that isn't until late nov/early dec as I had said early.

I can't help but read your email to have been a bit snippy and suggestive that you were kept out of something. You do not need to justify yourself or your experience to me. We haven't even begun to think about who's going or who's presenting. I said that I'd let you know and I will. If you wanted to be a part of the other portion then I suppose you'd have to do that the following year. You didn't bring up your interest in going until well after August 1. So, please don't think I'm leaving you out of something. Please be less quick to judge and justify and instead simply a soft email inquiring next time. Stop by and talk to me if you have concerns. I don't need another email like this from someone who I consider a friend...

Thanks.

Hi Aric,

Just learned that I missed the AAFS deadline of Aug. 1. I'm very disappointed. After Atlanta you said you would include me in the next Forensics Conference in DC. I very much wanted to go but can't justify the trip if I cannot present. A heads-up on the deadline would have been very nice. I know it's mainly my fault. I should have been more proactive. I would have been if I didn't have such a stressful summer. Had to abruptly travel to Germany when my mother fell gravely ill and had to be admitted to the ICU for several weeks.

Forensics has always been a great interest of mine. I hold two BS degrees in Biology and Chemistry. Taught 4 courses in Crime Scene Analysis for the California State University, Fullerton and have a working and research background in Criminal Profiling.

I would have loved to go with you guys ...

Sabina
